How are the ratings calculated?

Flags are green if attainment is 10 percentage points (%pts) or more above the national figure. If attainment is within 10%pts of the national figure, the flag is yellow. A red flag means that attainment is 10%pts or more below the national figure.

The progress traffic lights are shaded green if the score in that subject is greater than 1, purple if the score is also sig+. An amber rating is given for a progress score between -2.5 and 1. A red rating indicates a progress score lower than -2.5 or one that is sig-.

The provisional national figures for 2018 are:

Combined R/W/M - 64.3%
Reading - 75%
Writing - 78%
Maths - 76%
EGPS - 78%

The overall rating assesses only the 4 headline measures. If 3 or 4 measures are red, the school is deemed to have underperformed; if 1 or 2 measures are red, the school is categorised as having concerns; if the school has at least 3 out of the following 4 : sig+ for the 3 progress measures and green flag for combined attainment then the school has performed to a high standard; otherwise the school's performance is considered average.
